Graduate Elementary Greek:

This class is open to any graduate who would like to learn ancient Greek - and will also prepare graduates on Masters courses for exams in beginning Greek.

The class will meet for 3 h/ week in MT, HT and TT.

The course book used is John Taylor, Greek to GCSE (latest edition 2016) 2 vol. Please bring a copy of the book to class from the first session.

The class sessions will start at the beginning of the book, and aim to cover most of the two volumes by the end of the academic year. Students should expect at least one hour of study (exercises, memorising, pre-reading) for each class session. There will be regular homework assignments and tests, organised by the instructor. There will also be faculty tests at the beginning of HT and of TT.

Students can simply come to the first session; but it is very helpful to the language teaching team if students sign up by emailing: juliane.kerkhecker@classics.ox.ac.uk (students who sign up via email will be sent pdfs of the first few chapters of the course book.)

Graduate Intermediate Greek:

This class is open to any graduate who would like to improve their reading skills in ancient Greek - and will also prepare graduates on Masters courses for exams in intermediate Greek.

The class will meet for 2 h/ week in MT and HT and for 4 more sessions (mostly exam preparation) in TT.

The classes will cover as much as possible of the prescribed texts for the intermediate Greek exam options:

An Anthology of Greek Prose ed. D.A. Russell (Oxford University Press 1991), Nos. 17, 18, 23, 24, 33, 40, 44, 66, 78, and a choice of two of
(i) Herodotus I.1-94 [ed. Hude, OCT];
(iii) Euripides, Bacchae [ed. Diggle, OCT].

The classes will start, in MT, with the selection from the Anthology of Greek Prose. Students who plan to offer the Euripides as one of their two exam texts will have the option to join a Euripides reading class in MT (1h/week, weeks 2-7); students who plan to offer the Herodotus as one of their two exam texts will have the option to join a Herodotus reading class in TT (1h/week, weeks 2-7). Please email juliane.kerkhecker@classics.ox.ac.uk if you plan to offer either texts for your exam and would like to attend these reading classes.
Students should expect at least one hour of study (preparing new passages, going over passages, revising grammar etc) for each class session. There will be regular homework assignments and tests, organised by the instructor. There will also be faculty tests at the beginning of HT and of TT.

Students need to be aware that the class sessions (even including reading classes) are usually not able to cover all prescribed texts in detail: students are expected to finish preparing the texts during the vacations; the faculty tests at the end of the vacations / at the beginning of HT and TT will be a useful check-in point for the text preparation done during the vacation.

Students can simply come to the first session; but it is very helpful to the language teaching team if students sign up by emailing: juliane.kerkhecker@classics.ox.ac.uk (students who sign up via email will be sent pdfs of the texts for the first weeks.)

Graduate Elementary Latin:

This class is open to any graduate who would like to learn Latin - and will also prepare graduates on Masters courses for exams in beginning Latin.

The class will meet for 3 h/ week in MT, HT and TT. The course book used is Wheelock’s Latin (latest ed. 7th ed.) Please bring a copy of the book to class from the first session.

The class sessions will start at the beginning of the book, and aim to cover most of the book by the end of the academic year. Students should expect at least one hour of study (exercises, memorising, pre-reading) for each class session. There will be regular homework assignments and tests, organised by the instructor. There will also be faculty tests at the beginning of HT and of TT.

Students can simply come to the first session; but it is very helpful to the language teaching team if students sign up by emailing: juliane.kerkhecker@classics.ox.ac.uk (students who sign up via email will be sent pdfs of the first few chapters of the course book.)

Graduate Intermediate Latin:

This class is open to any graduate who would like to improve their reading skills in Latin - and will also prepare graduates on Masters courses for exams in intermediate Latin.

The class will meet for 2 h/ week in MT and HT and for 4 more sessions (mostly exam preparation) in TT.

The classes will cover as much as possible of the prescribed texts for the intermediate Latin exam options:

An Anthology of Latin Prose ed. D.A. Russell (OUP 1990), nos. 7, 12, 22, 23, 34, 52 and 63, and a choice of two of:
(i) Cicero, Pro Caelio [ed. OCT].
(ii) Pliny, Letters 1.6, 9, 13, 19; VII.21, 24, 26, 29; VIII.16, 17; IX.6, 12, 15, 27, 33, 39; X.31, 32, 96, 97 (ed. M.B. Fisher and M.R. Griffin, CUP 1973)

The classes will start, in MT, with the selection from the Anthology of Greek Prose. Students who plan to offer the Ovid as one of their two exam texts will have the option to join an Ovid reading class in MT (1h/week, weeks 2-7); students who plan to offer the Cicero as one of their two exam texts will have the option to join a Cicero reading class in TT (1h/week, weeks 2-7). Please email juliane.kerkhecker@classics.ox.ac.uk if you plan to offer either texts for your exam and would like to attend these reading classes.

Students should expect at least one hour of study (preparing new passages, going over passages, revising grammar etc) for each class session. There will be regular homework assignments and tests, organised by the instructor. There will also be faculty tests at the beginning of HT and of TT.

Students need to be aware that the class sessions (even including reading classes) are usually not able to cover all prescribed texts in detail: students are expected to finish preparing the texts during the vacations; the faculty tests at the end of the vacations / at the beginning of HT and TT will be a useful check-in point for the text preparation done during the vacation.

Students can simply come to the first session; but it is very helpful to the language teaching team if students sign up by emailing juliane.kerkhecker@classics.ox.ac.uk (students who sign up via email will be sent pdfs of the texts for the first weeks.)